

January 2009

WELCOME TO MY FIRST NEWSLETTER... photoG quarterly

Hello everyone! This piece of literature represents my first effort in sending out a brief update on what's happening with me and my company GM Photography. It will be a quarterly single-page issue coming out in January, April, July and October. Feel free to contact me anytime on my details below with your thoughts, ideas or photography questions/needs. I hope you have had a great break over Christmas and I look forward to keeping in touch in 2009.

REGARDS,
GLENN

New digital workflow...

Well I have finally done it! Last June/July took the (expensive) plunge into a full digital photographic system! A new Nikon D300 dSLR and Nikon D700 dSLR now replace my beloved Nikon film cameras. But wow now I have them why did I wait so long! They produce amazing quality and give me the creative flexibility I need. The best thing is my turn-around time is now minutes, not days!

Australian Macworld Interview...

Exciting news! My admiration of Apple Macintosh products that are now an integral connection to my photographic system has landed me an "Photographer Profile" in the February 2009 issue of Australian Macworld magazine. Read my thoughts on photography style, future digital predictions, the Samurai and a few of my favourite pics!

Recent and new travel...

Recent travel has taken me to Singapore last October. My the plan was to spend a week there soaking up the sights then fly onto India (Delhi) to photograph my friends wedding. Who could resist right? Unfortunately a key family figure fell ill and the wedding was postponed. Wedding or not, it's still on the list of my must-get-to locations for 2009.

Over this Christmas / New Year period I did a couple of photo shoots for New Zealand tour providers and enjoyed an always needed break from the everyday. Check out my site in late January for the photo results.

This February, I'm heading to Malaysia (Kuala Lumpur) to capture the mix of cultures and world influences. From here, I'm (hopefully) heading to the Maldives to give my Scuba Dive Master skills a refresher. Living here in Melbourne, it's been a long time between dips!

Gotta get that shot...

For those who know me, I push myself to the limit (and frequently over) to be able to get 'that shot'. This truly gives me the greatest satisfaction. The bruise to the left was one of my best I acquired while shooting a wedding in Geelong in June. While was climbing up a vineyard post to get an elevated perspective, I slipped and grated my side on the steel wire that suspends the vines. It didn't hurt at the time but I did feel a tickle the next day!

Some recent stock images

The Singapore city skyline

In Singapore's Chinatown

Butterfly on Sentosa Island, Singapore

Lost in Victoria's High Country

A storm coming over St.Kilda pier